

Jo Sennitt | Editor

Editorial services for established, indie and aspiring authors Children's and young adult fiction a speciality

I am an editor, consultant and reviewer with a passion for helping writers achieve their dreams.

Training and membership

I am affiliated with the UK's top industry-recognised professional organisations; I trained with the Publishing Training Centre and the Chartered Institute of Editing and Proofreading. I am a member of CIEP and bound by their Code of Practice.

Subject specialisms

I have a BA in English Language / Literature and an MA in Library and Information Studies. With 30+ years' experience in the education sector, I've read over 30,000 books for children and young adults and promoted them in school workshops, publications and projects. My field of interest includes: education, psychology, social work, adoption and fostering, SEND, feminism, literary criticism, paganism, poetry and fiction of all genres and for all ages.

Editorial solutions

I provide detailed, constructive and sensitive manuscript appraisals, and professional copyediting and proofreading services, to help established, new and indie authors develop and hone their writing craft at story and sentence level.

Your journey is what counts

As a writer myself, I understand the many pressures writers face and aim for my services to be affordable, high quality, and to provide real support to your aspirations. I'm approachable, friendly and will work with you to develop your manuscript, whatever stage you're at.

I want your story to shine!
